

EXPORTS TO MEMBER COUNTRIES OF THE ASSOCIATION OF SOUTHEAST ASIAN NATIONS (ASEAN) AND AUSTRALIA — CERTIFICATION AND TRADE FACILITATION

New Zealand has implemented processes for certifying the origin of New Zealand exports to another party to the Agreement Establishing the ASEAN-Australia-New Zealand Free Trade Area (the AANZFTA Agreement). The certification of goods which are originating under the AANZFTA Agreement will facilitate the preferential entry of such goods into the other parties to the AANZFTA Agreement.

Information for New Zealand importers about the rules of origin requirements for goods imported into New Zealand from another party to the AANZFTA Agreement is provided in Fact sheet 42.

There are 12 signatories to the AANZFTA Agreement – New Zealand and Australia, and the ten countries that are members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN): Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, and Vietnam.

In the context of this fact sheet, the signatories to the AANZFTA Agreement are referred to individually as a "party" or collectively as the "parties".

REQUIREMENT FOR A CERTIFICATE OF ORIGIN

To benefit from the preferential tariff treatment applied under the AANZFTA Agreement, goods imported into another party to the AANZFTA Agreement from New Zealand will require a certificate of origin.

Note:

This requirement extends to goods exported to Australia that claim preferential tariff treatment under the AANZFTA Agreement.

A certificate of origin is not required for goods where the FOB value does not exceed US$200 or such higher amount specified in the importing party's domestic laws, regulations or administrative practices, provided that the importation does not form part of one or more importations that may reasonably be considered to have been undertaken or arranged for the purpose of avoiding the submission of a certificate of origin.

CERTIFICATION OF NEW ZEALAND ORIGIN

A certificate of origin (in the format set out in Appendix 1) will give assurance to the Customs authority of the importing party that an importer's claim for originating status under the AANZFTA Agreement is valid.

As mentioned above, goods imported into another party to the AANZFTA Agreement from New Zealand, for which originating status is claimed, require a certificate of origin issued by a certification body in New Zealand to evidence that those goods are entitled to preferential tariff treatment.

Certification bodies are able to issue certificates of origin in respect of the AANZFTA Agreement to enable eligible New Zealand exports to claim the applicable preferential tariff treatment when imported into another party to the AANZFTA Agreement. The certification bodies in New Zealand are:

- » Independent Verification Services Ltd;
- » New Zealand Chambers of Commerce Inc;
- » SGS New Zealand Ltd; and
- » New Zealand Manufacturers and Exporters Association.

The New Zealand Customs Service is not involved in the day-to-day administration of the verification system. The system is run entirely by the particular certification body. The New Zealand Customs Service will, however, maintain an oversight to assure itself that valid certificates of origin are being issued, and it will be the link between the certification bodies and the Customs authority in the importing party to address any practical issues that may arise.

New Zealand exporters applying for certificates of origin will need to satisfy the certification body which they elect to use that their goods are originating under the AANZFTA Agreement. Although different certification bodies may have different application processes, the resulting certificate of origin will be issued in the same format (see Appendix 1).

Note:

Multiple goods may be declared on the same certificate of origin provided that each good is originating in its own right.

THIRD PARTY INVOICING

The Customs authority of the importing party may accept a certificate of origin in cases where the sale invoice is issued either by a company located in a third country or by a New Zealand exporter for the account of that company, provided that the goods exported from New Zealand in fact qualify as originating under the AANZFTA Agreement.

BACK-TO-BACK CERTIFICATES OF ORIGIN

The purpose of a back-to-back certificate of origin is to ensure that when goods arrive in the importing party they still meet the rules of origin criteria documented on the certificate of origin issued by the issuing authority/body in the original exporting party. The system also assists in ensuring that the goods have not been tampered with on the way to their destination in a way that would alter their entitlement to originating status under the AANZFTA Agreement.

For example, if goods that qualify as originating under the AANZFTA Agreement pass through New Zealand on their journey to another party to the AANZFTA Agreement, a New Zealand certification body can issue a back-to-back certificate of origin (if an application is made by the exporter while the goods pass through New Zealand) provided that:

- » a valid original certificate of origin is presented; and

- » the goods do not undergo any further processing in New Zealand, except for repacking or logistics activities such as unloading, reloading, storing, or any other operations necessary to preserve them in good condition or to transport them to the importing party.

Note:

The period of validity of the back-to-back certificate of origin will not exceed the period of validity of the original certificate of origin.
